

Capstone Project

Weigang Wei

Introduction

Business problem

It is aimed to build a model to predict the severity of an accident based on a database which contains a set of accident severity data. This model is prepared for the local transportation department and this model may be used to set up diverted routes, and temporary speed limits etc.